LIFSTAN, SON OF LEIKNIR

Your father was a smith. When you were a child, the sound of the hammer ringing in his forge was as music to your ears. One day, when the city of Dale was finally rebuilt and the entrance to the Lonely Mountain opened once again, your father brought you to see the forges of the Mountain-folk. There, you have seen the work of the Dwarf-smiths of old: weapons and armour that could help restore and protect the new kingdom.

From that day you have always strove to fight back the darkness and the enemies that lie in wait in the deep places of the world...

Why Lifstan begins the game at Woodmen-town:

You were forbidden by your father from answering Bard’s call until you delivered a message to the elders of Woodmen-town. You did it, parted company with his father’s men who left some days ago and now you want to get back.

Beran of the Mountains

You were born into a family of shepherds and hunters near the eastern edge of the Misty Mountains. Since you were a child you felt a great fascination for the high and snowy peaks, and spent most of your time climbing and looking for new paths over the mountains. After you met Beorn and embraced his cause, you chose to protect any friendly traveller that finds himself journeying through the mountain passes in these times of growing peril.

Why Beran begins the game at Woodmen-town:

You came down from the mountains to see what he could do in the wider world to help people. You heard tell of Bard’s Proclamation, and want to reach Lake-town. Your wandering has brought you to Woodmen-town. You’re not sure which way to go to get to Lake-town.

Belı

When you were a child, your father went north to find the hoard of an ancient Dragon and never returned. In his absence, you honed your skills preparing to follow him on the road to adventure and now you think the day has arrived to take up the challenge: you are clever, well-equipped and without fear - you are ready to go and seek what secret treasures are still hidden in the remote corners of the world.

Why Belı begins the game at Woodmen-town:

You crossed Mirkwood with a group of traders out of Erebor, performing menial tasks for them. They headed North, you decided to head south in search of adventure. Now you have heard Bard’s proclamation and wish to hurry homeward to help.

Caranthiel

Many decades have passed since the last time you left the halls of your King to once again breathe the air of what used to be Greenwood the Great. In the hallowed silence of your underground dwelling you studied the lives of those who fought the darkness before your time, secretly hoping that you would return to see the Moon wane on a world already free from the Shadow. But your dreams were obviously just that, dreams.

What was waiting for you was a place much darker than your King’s dusky palace, and it will take more than the red torch-light of your folk to cleanse Mirkwood once and for all. But you have resolved that you can be the light that chases away the shadows, and you will teach others how to do the same.

Why Caranthiel begins the game at Woodmen-town:

You have of late wandered the elf paths of Mirkwood, finally reaching Woodmen-town. There you heard of Bard’s Proclamation, and now seek to travel to Lake-town. This seems like an ideal opportunity to learn more of the wider world.

Cultural Virtue

- None.
You left your peaceful life in the Shire when you ran away to find Gandalf, the Conjuror, after he paid a visit to your family at your coming of age party. He tried to convince you to turn back, but as you stubbornly refused, he caught something in your eyes that convinced him to let you have your way. You spent many weeks with him, until he deemed you ready to find your own path.

The dreams you had in the Shire are now your plans for the future: you want to light your broken-stemmed pipe in the halls of Beorn the Shapeshifter and walk side by side with the Wizard Radagast in the fenced garth of Rhosgobel, you want to visit the royal palace of Dale and see the throne of the King under the Mountain.

Why Trotter begins the game at Woodmen-town:

You have spent a year working your way Eastwards. King Bard’s summons reached you at The Old Ford, and you have resolved to head to Lake-town. You’ve dropped into Woodmen-town to resupply before heading onward.

The Bride

You were born west of the Great River, in one of the villages nearest the mountains. You were scarcely fifteen when you first saw him, he who would become your groom, at a folk-moot held at Mountain hall, in a time when the Orcs were sorely threatening your people. Only a few months later you moved across the river to be near him, as he was from the folk dwelling in the forest. As you waited for your wedding, you learned how to seek a prey among the trees, and your love for the hunt rivalled that for your future husband.

One night, only a handful of days before your wedding-day, he left with a company of men from the village, refusing to bring you with him and giving no explanations. Only his faithful hound returned, grievously wounded. When the elders of the village saw the claw marks on the hound they shook their heads, speaking of the dreaded Beast of Mirkwood...

Why The Bride begins the game at Woodmen-town:

You have been heading East searching for the Beast of Mirkwood. Bard’s proclamation reached you recently, and you have resolved to head to Lake-town and see if you can find help for your quest.
